APPOINTMENT BY THE PRESIDENT.

Joseph R. Brown, of Minnesota, Indian agent for the Sioux Indians in Minnesota, in place of Agent Flandreau, who was recently appointed one of the judges of Utah Territory.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS-CONTINUED.

We continue to-day our extracts from the papers which come to us from all parts of the country. The doctrines advanced by the President in his letter in reply to the Connecticut memorial meet with a heartiness of approbation, rarely accorded to any paper from such a source, bearing on public affairs He has been truly fortunate in fully meeting public expectation, and gratifying the hopes and justifying the confidence of the democratic party. The just and conservative spirit which pervades it, the firmness of purpose and the determination of will which are evinced to conform to the constitution, and to see that "the laws are faithfully executed," reassure the public mind and confirm the confi dence of all. What else could inspire such wide spread approbation as is now being exhibited throughout the country? The evidences of this are daily coming to us from all sections of the Union. This cordial and spontaneous approbation must be as gratifying to the President, as it certainly is to his personal and party friends.

THE NEW COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS.

If the press truly reflects the sentiments of the people, the appointment of Joseph Holt, esq., of Kentucky, as Commissioner of Patents, may be safely regarded as an exceedingly popular one, and as judicious as popular. All concede to him the needed and varied attainments for the successful and accept able discharge of the important duties of his arduous and responsible office; and as he has long enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most earnest, efficient, and eloquent supporters of the democratic party, it affords us the greatest pleasure thus to record a conspicuous recognition of capacity talents, and service.

A correspondent, who was a member of the Democratic National Convention of 1836, has kindly furnished us with the following brief and graphic notice of the eloquent and well-known speech delivered by Mr. Holt before that body :

Mr. Holt before that body:

Mr. Holt rose, not far from the entrance door of the building, under the impulse of the moment, and made one of the most trilling and eloquent speeches that it has ever been my pleasure and privilege to listen to before or since. I have never seen in all my life such a powerful effect produced upon a deliberative body. During its delivery almost every member of the body rose to his feet—some chapped, some stamped, others hallood bravo to the top of their voices, and some mounted the benches. The galleries were crowded with spectators—among them were a large number of the fair sex—all of whom rose to their feet to catch a glimpse of the orator. The ladies gave evidence of their joy by the waving of handkerchiets, &c. When I am asked the question, Who is Joseph Hott? I reply, Go to the Globe office and read a speech he made in the Baltimore National Convention in 1836.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The New York democratic State convention met at Syracuse on Thursday morning, and was permanently organized by the election of Hon. William Taylor as president. Some little difficulty was experienced in the preliminary proceedings in consequence of the opposing claims of three sets of delegates from the city of New York; but this difficulty was ultimately adjusted in a satisfactory manner by the adoption of a resolution admitting eight "Cooper" and eight "Wilson Small" delegates-the sixteen choosing a seventeenth delegate.

The convention met again yesterday morning, and nominated the following ticket: For comptroller, Sandford Church; treasurer, Isaac Vanderpool; secretary of State, Gideon Tucker; attorney g Lyman Tremaine; engineer, Van R. Richmond; prison inspector, W. C. Rhodes.

We received a telegraphic despatch yesterday afternoon from an esteemed correspondent in Syracuse. which states that the feeling which animates the members of the convention augurs well for the success of the entire State ticket, which is a strong one. The local differences in the city of New York have been happily adjusted; and the democracy of the Empire State will now present to the enemies of their principles a solid and united front.

Never was a party more conscious of superior strength than the democratic masses of New York are at the present time. It needed only union and harmony to bring that strength into successful oper-

THE CANVASS IN MISSISSIPPI

The eloquent Lamar has canvassed several counties of his district with remarkable success. A correspondent of the Corinth Republican, in Tishomingo county, writes:

"In conclusion, I would remark that the Colonel' "In conclusion, I would remark that the Colond a effort here as a statesman is unaurpassed by any speaker it has been my good fortune to hear—in fact, upon the political hustings he has no superior in the State; and as a strong and able debater he has no superior of his age in the United States. He gave universal satisfaction to his democratic friends, who will rally as one man to his aurency in October next." support in October next."

Speaking of the prospects of Gen. Reuben Davis, the Carrolton Democrat says: "We have private information from the eastern por-tion of the second congressional district that Gen. Davis will receive fifteen hundred or two thousand votes in that part of the district beyond the strongth of his party. These are large figures, but Davis is a man of great per-sonal popularity, and may receive the large vote his friends claim for him."

From the same paper we copy the following:

"WILLIAM BARKSDALE.—This gentleman is now filling a list of appointments which pervade the entire district. Some under similar circumstances not only without opposition, but in a position to defy it, would have consulted their ease and personal comfort, and remained at home. Not so with Captain Barksdale. He desires to deserve by a laborious discharge of his whole duty the compliment that was poid him in his nomination by acclamation and without opposition by the constituency he has served so faithfully and so well. We bespeak for him a full attendance at his appointments.

"Structure and have.—These gentlemen are making a sallant fight for the control and mastery of the fourth district. They are conducting the canvass like gentlemen always should, and dignity and propriety corresponding with the high position to which they aspire. Singleton will be elected by the old district without the advantage of Lauderdale. He deserves success."

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

It will be remembered that, in passing upon the onstitutionality of the New York police bill, Judge Denio gave the opinion of the majority of the court in its favor, and Judge John W. Brown an able, and, as we thought, a conclusive one against it. A judge to fill Judge Denio's expired term is about to be elected. Judge Brown has been warmly pressed to become a candidate for nomination at Syracuse. But he declines, and, in a letter to one of the delegates says:

"It is possible, barely possible, that my name may be mentioned at the convention in connexion with the nomination to the court of appeals. Should anything of that kind occur, I beg you will on my behalf decline it respectfully, but positively. I should regard the nomination a great distinction, whatever might be the result; but should nevertheless decline it upon a point of honor, and upon public consideration which you will appreciate. The convention could not make a candidate without having its action referred to what occurred in the court of appeals upon the question of the metropolitan police bill, and thus it would be made, truly or untruly, to assume the attitude of nominating a candidate for a high judicial station on account of his opinion upon a single question, and that one which will enter somewhat into the election. The judicial office is not representative in its nature. Its and that one which will enter somewhat into the election.

The judicial office is not representative in its nature. Its function is the administration of fixed and durable principles. Democrats must not even expose themselves to such an imputation, for it is one of the prominent sins of our adversaries that they would change the judges both in the State and in the Union, with the view to change fundamental principles. So much for public considerations; now for those of a private character. The nomination is really due to Judge Denio, due to his high moral worth, and his eminent ability and services, here-tofore rendered at very inadequate compensation. It is said he has declined to be a capitalet. If so, he may have been influenced by the dissatisfaction expressed by some of the democratic organs at his judgment upon the police bill. It would be wise—nay, magnanimous—to nominate him, and I am confident he would be elected."

Wherever such manly magnanimity prevails among

Wherever such manly magnanimity prevails among udges, we shall have no fears concerning an elective udiciary. How nobly Judge Brown's views contrast with those black republicans who wish to strike down the majority of the United States Supreme Court on account of a difference of opinion upon constitutional questions !

His confience in the institution was immediately restored.

The Boston Journal states that there is now stored on the Boston wharf, South Boston, in bond, over six acres of sugar and molasses. There are also large quantities in other localities. What is to become of it all? There is now in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, more than three times the stock of sugar that there was a year since.

OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11, 1857.

The usual note of alarm and action that precedes election is seen in all parts of our city. The election of Mr. Buchanan has greatly changed the political aspect of the city and of the State. When the election last fall was pending we had no democratic organs except the Journal of Commerce, the Daily News, and the Day Book; but since that time the Herald is favorable to the administration. The Times has hauled down the republican flag; the Mirror has become openly democratic; Put-nam's Monthly has gone down to the tomb; and the Express has done valiant service against the "freedom-shrick rs," and on national matters.

The black-republicans have made themselves odious

Judge Peabody decided, on Tuesday last, that Mrs. Cunningham was entitled to bail, and fixed the sum at $5,000. Mr. Hall, the district attorney, gave notice that he should appeal, and the case goes up to the general term of the supreme court on a writ of certiorari, to be heard by the full bench. One of the most eminent criminal lawyers in this land has expressed his readiness to take up the case of Mrs. Cunningham at the trial of the bogus-child affair. We have had the past two weeks delightful weather cool and balmy: the green foliage looks like summer, and the prospects of autumn are yet nowhere seen.

The Louisiana Courier of the 4th inst. says: "New Orleans continues to be signally favored. The repairs and decorations of the buildings of all descriptions are being rapidly completed; and summer absentees on business and pleasure are beginning to return. From on business and pleasure are beginning to return. From day to day this will, of course, now become more marked, till, in a very short time, we may expect to have to report business and gaiety in full career, rejoicing in the season, full of present enjoyment and high hopes for the future. May nothing mar them!"

The Federal (Georgia) Union says: "We understand that a man by the name of John I. Bass was killed in his own house one day last week by a Mrs. Hudson. The parties all lived in Hancock county. It appears that Bass came home drunk, maltreated his wife, and drove her and children and Mrs. Hudson and children out of his house. Mrs. Hudson burst two caps at him; then she went home, and next morning very early, just as Bass was getting up, she entered his room, placed a pistel to his breast and fired, killing Bass instantly. These are the particulars, so far as we have been able to collect them."
